1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

2. Claims 9,13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Silverbrook (6,227,654).

Silverbrook discloses the claimed material titanium diboride used within an actuator (claim 7).

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 5,7,11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Silverbrook in view of Ozaki et al (5,409,762).

Silverbrook discloses the invention as claimed except for the additional materials used in the actuator. Ozaki et al discloses that the claimed materials including titanium diboride may be used as a conducting material.

Thus it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use the claimed materials in the invention of Silverbrook as these materials are known in the electrical art to be functionally equivalent, as shown by Ozaki et al.
